

25,000 POPULATION OR BUST

Join the Boosters' Club at the Mass Meeting at Myers' Theater Tonight.

EVERYONE ENTHUSE

Now is the Time For Janesville Citizens to Get Together and Show Their Loyalty to Their Home Town.

Tonight will witness the organization of a Boosters' club whose object is to promote the interests of Janesville. Through the kindness of Manager Myers, the meeting will be held in the Myers theater. The music for the evening is donated by the Moose band and numerous quartettes and it promises to be an evening long to be remembered in the annals of Janesville.

By the efforts of the organization committee, with Frank P. Croak as chairman, M. P. Richardson, S. M. Jacobs, J. W. Van Buren and Wm. F. Kuhlman, tentative plans have been formulated for the organization of the club itself. Not until 1,000 have joined will the nine directors be named. Then every member of the club will have an opportunity of voting not only for the nomination but also for the candidates later. The method of this voting will be determined by the organization committee and given publicity through the newspapers and by other means.

Already the little buttons, with the significant letters, Janesville, Wis., 25,000, Club, have made their appearance on the streets. Many have thus early signified their intention of uniting with the new organization and when the meeting is over tonight it is anticipated that fully a thousand will have paid their membership dues of one dollar and put the button on their coat as a sign they stand for a bigger Janesville.

J. W. Van Buren has the distribution of the buttons and collection of the money in charge. He will have a dozen men with membership rolls and buttons stationed through the theatre this evening so that all who want to join can do so by signing the membership roll, paying their dollar and accepting their receipt, the little button.

The following is the copy of the membership roll to be signed and everyone can read it carefully before signing.

Membership Roll of Twenty-five Thousand Club of Janesville.

We, the undersigned, citizens of the city of Janesville, Wisconsin, desirous of promoting the growth, prosperity and general welfare of our city and harmony and unity among our fellow citizens, through a representative organization of all citizens of all classes hereby enroll ourselves as members of an organization to be known as the Twenty-five Thousand Club, with an annual dues of $1.00 and to be managed by a Board of Directors of nine persons chosen by the members of the club when the membership thereof shall approximate one thousand persons and we pledge this club our loyal and unwavering support.

Residence.

Follow the band and be a booster. Join the big parade and march to the opera house to show that you believe in Janesville for the people, by the people and join the Boosters' club.

It is a chance to demonstrate that Janesville residents want a bigger city and everyone interested in seeing it grow should be on hand to do their individual best to make the club a success.

The meeting is open to everyone. Men, women, young men and girls can all affiliate themselves with the movement. It is a citizen's movement and everyone should feel free to express their views on the organization and methods of procedure.

All claimed victory for their favorite candidate.

They first spread papers covered with jam over the windows so as to deaden the sound and then smashed the large panes of glass with hammers, the jam preventing the broken glass from falling. In Antwerp and West Flanders, where the socialists are weakest there were about 14,000 strikers making in all 270,000 men. These figures vary somewhat from the socialist estimate of 350,000 men and the government estimate of 120,000.

Everything is Quiet.

There has been no disturbance and tranquility is reported everywhere today. Only four men have been arrested thus far for interfering with non-strikers. The strike leaders insist that the strike shall be one of "folded arms and not raised fists."

The strike is intended by socialists as a protest against the system of plural voting which effectually prevents them from obtaining a majority at the polls and which has permitted the clerical party to retain in power for the past twenty years.

"A Smiling Kitchen Makes a Happy Cook"

[By J. F. Fallon.]

This statement was made by a prominent Janesville merchant a year ago upon the occasion of his April Housewarming Sale.

A smiling kitchen is one in which there is a place for everything and everything in its place. It is also one in which you will find a complete outfit of utensils and labor-saving and time-saving devices that have changed "poor luck" cooking into assured success always.

Every kitchen should be smiling because the smile is reflected in the dishes that are prepared there. Every cook should be happy because happiness and contentment are essential to good cooking.

Put a smile in your kitchen that won't come off by replenishing your stock of utensils with bright new pans, kettles, mixers and the numerous other things best known to the cook.

Read the advertisements in THE GAZETTE closely and constantly every day and see how Janesville's merchants can help you to make a "smiling kitchen." In this way you will find many opportunities to purchase the things you need at a big saving.

DETECTIVES EXPECT TO CAPTURE MURDERER

Valuable Cues Gained by Detectives in Chicago Murder Case—Case of Girl Being Investigated.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Chicago, April 15.—Valuable clues are believed to have been gained by detectives relative to the identity of the murderer of George Dietz, wealthy tailor and milliner who was found beaten to death in his home yesterday.

Nearly all of the work of investigation done by detectives during the night centered about the death of Edna May Frederickson, the 16-year old girl who died from the effects of an illegal operation.

It was admitted by the assistant chief and his men that the most valuable lines they have to follow was that the murder of Dietz was committed to avenge the death of the girl.

The assistant chief who assumed personal charge of the case said after nearly 24 hours of work:

"I think we have this puzzle solved. We expect to clear it up completely sometime today."

The police planned to question today George Ringler, Jr., who admitted at the coroner's inquest into her death in March that had been engaged to her and who at that time was exonerated from all complicity in her death.

Not on Vessel.

Manitowoc, April 15.—George Ringler, Jr., who was engaged to Edna Frederickson, a Chicago girl whose death is thought to have been a prelude to the murder there yesterday of George Dietz, was not on the steamer Iowa when she arrived here. The vessel sailed from Chicago Saturday and Ringler was reported to have been aboard as a member of the crew. None of the men in the crew could say why he missed the trip. He had worked on the steamer as a machinist according to members of the engine room force.

POPE MUCH BETTER IS REPORT ISSUED BY HIS PHYSICIANS

Illness Now Taking Its Normal Course Following Restful Night.—Pope Urged to Follow Doctor's Orders.

Rome, April 15.—Prof. Ettore Marchiafava, the pope's physician, gave out the following statement today:

"The illness of the Pope is now taking its normal course. The patient was much better during the forenoon after his night's rest. He had a slight setback late yesterday."

"If it is possible to induce Pope Pius to follow the advice and orders of his medical advisors, the amelioration in his condition will bring with it a revival of strength."

"The Pope is a most difficult patient to deal with. While apparently giving in to the recommendations of his physician, the moment he feels slightly better he insists on having his own way saying, 'I command here.'"

Weather Favorable.

The clearing up of the weather today is taken as a hopeful augury for the recovery of the Pope. Father Parolin, the Pope's nephew, helped his uncle through his morning toilet today and gave him his breakfast of weak coffee and milk. Father Parolin, who has installed himself in a small room in the Vatican adjoining the Pope's apartment, declared this morning that the Pope had suffered from only three coughing spells during the night and that the cough was much easier. The pulse, he said, was stronger and the respiration more regular.

When Prof. Marchiafava appeared the Pope was so cheerful that he joked with the physician and congratulated him on the realization of his prediction of recovery. The professor answered:

"I will make another prediction. You will have a further relapse if you do not patiently fulfill the doctor's commands." The Pope insisted, however, that remaining in bed would make him nervous and the professor permitted him to sit up in a chair for a few minutes while his bed was being made, but would not allow him to walk.

At eleven the Pope was assisted from his bed and removed to an arm chair close by. He had been there only a few minutes when he showed signs of dissatisfaction.

"I said, 'I command here.' At least carry me to the window so that I may enjoy the sun." This was done immediately. At noon the Pope took some chicken jelly which seemed to refresh him greatly.

Morning Bulletin.

Rome, April 15.—The pope's condition appeared to be practically unchanged today. The morning bulletin issued by the papal physicians, Ettore Marchiafava and Dr. Andrea Amici, was as follows:

"The holy father was again without fever this morning. His temperature is 97. The cough has diminished and expectoration has become easy and copious. The pontiff's general condition has always been satisfactory. Signed, Marchiafava and Amici."

MAKE SLOW PROGRESS ON NEW TARIFF BILL

HOUSE CAUCUS NOT HALF THROUGH WITH MEASURE WHICH WAS PROMISED BY MAY 1.

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Washington, April 15.—Slow progress in consideration of the new tariff bill by the democratic house caucus has upset the early prediction of administration leaders that the bill would be ready for the senate by May 1. After a week of deliberation the caucus is less than half way through the proposed measure with several of the important schedules yet to be disposed of, notably wool and cotton. The income tax also is certain to require considerable time in discussion as members desire to have it thoroughly explained.

Oppose Free Flour.

Today the caucus resumed consideration of the agricultural schedule, wheat, the first taken up. North-western representatives opposed the free listing of flour, declaring it inconsistent with a proposed duty of ten cents a bushel on wheat. Citrus fruits also were the target for opposition as well as the free listing of potatoes.

Canal Toll Question.

While President Wilson has never expressed himself publicly on the question of Panama canal tolls he has informally indicated to his friends that he believes in an interpretation of the treaty which would make it improper for the United States to exempt its vessels in the coastwise traffic from paying tolls. He is also understood to take the position the exemption as now proposed is in effect a subsidy, and he always has always been opposed to subsidies.

May Favor England.

The report that the president had intimated to Ambassador Bryce that the settlement of the question would be favorable to Great Britain is credited generally in official circles because it is thought that Mr. Wilson's personal friendship for the retiring ambassador would account for their intimate conversation on this point just before Mr. Bryce's departure. Though Mr. Wilson has been urged not to give formal expression of his views until the tariff is disposed of in the present session of congress.

President Wilson arranged to meet the Japanese ambassador at the White House late today. It was believed the ambassador sought the interview to convey to the president the latest views of his government on changes in the alien land laws in California since he called on President Wilson two weeks ago.

President Wilson today nominated former Governor John E. Osborne of Wyoming to be first assistant secretary of state. Walter H. Page of New York to be ambassador to Great Britain. W. H. Osborne of Greensboro, N. C., to be commissioner of internal revenue, and H. Snowden Marshall to be United States attorney for the southern district of New York.

Postmaster General Burleson announced today that it was the administration's policy to remove all republican postmasters now in office to the end of their terms, provided no charges were sustained against their efficiency. The policy applies to all classes of postmasters.

Samuel Thompson, formerly republican attorney general of Colorado, has been selected for assistant attorney general of the United States before the court of claims.

All correspondence between the United States and Colombia relating to the lateness of claims for the participation of Panama are called for to be submitted to the senate by a resolution introduced today by Senator Hitchcock.

Republican senators at the conference agreed informally that there should be no general attack upon the Wilson appointment.

A bill which is intended to regulate lobbying in congress and which is similar to laws enacted by several states was introduced today by Senator Kenyon.

The caucus rejected both amendments and left the wheat rate as fixed by Mr. Underwood and his colleagues.

Various matters came before Judge Grimm for settlement yesterday afternoon. Arguments were made in the case of Ben. Onstahl vs. Chester J. D. Garde, clerk of the town of Avon, in an action for certiorari, a judgment of foreclosure of a mortgage was ordered in the case of S. P. Gilbert et al. vs. Carl Anden et al., and the case of John L. Libby vs. W. W. Schoenfeld of Edgerton, an action on contract, was taken under advisement. The foreclosure case of Chas. H. Stephens vs. August Streech et al., was decided for the plaintiff. This was a Green county matter.

Judge Grimm will return at noon tomorrow for the arguments in the petition brought on the part of City Clerk J. P. Hammarlund, asking that the plaintiff in the writ of mandamus action brought against him in the capacity of city clerk, show cause why he should not guarantee the costs of the suit.

FIRE MARSHAL ASKS OBSERVANCE OF DAY

May 2 Designated as Fire Prevention Day—Mayor Fathers' Receives Copy of Announcement.

State Fire Marshal T. M. Purcell has announced that Friday, May 2 has been designated as "Fire Prevention Day" and Governor McGovern has issued a proclamation calling upon the people of the state to observe it. Mayor Fathers this morning received a copy of the announcement and will soon issue a similar proclamation at the request of state officers. The Fire Marshal urges citizens to clean up possible sources of conflagrations, and chiefs of fire departments to make inspection of buildings. He also requests teachers in the public schools to give lesson talks on the dangers of fire and the methods of its prevention. Copies of two model ordinances

IF CONSTIPATED OR BILIOUS—"CASCARETS"

No Biliousness, Headache, Sick, Sour Stomach, Indigestion, Coated Tongue or Constipation.

Furred Tongue, Bad Taste, Indigestion, Sallow Skin and Miserable Headaches come from a torpid liver and clogged bowels, which cause your stomach to become filled with undigested food, which sours and ferments like garbage in a swill barrel. That's the first step to untold misery—indigestion, foul gases, bad breath, yellow skin, mental fears, everything that is horrible and nauseating. A Cascaret tonight will give your constipated bowels a thorough cleansing and straighten you out by morning. They work while you sleep—a 10-cent box from your druggist will keep you feeling good for months. Millions of men and women take a Cascaret now and then to keep their stomach, liver and bowels regulated, and never know a miserable moment. Don't forget the children—their little insides need a good, gentle cleansing, too.

Allen Dearborn winner of the oratorical medal, and Evelyn Welsh, who secured the honors in declamations, are preparing for the annual district contest in which will be entered representatives from Evansville, Beloit and Janesville. The event will be held at Beloit, the latter part of the month, or early in May.

In the contest which was held last Friday evening Mr. Dearborn had for his subject, "Modern Feudalism," in which he treated in a comprehensive manner, some of the modern trust problems. His assurance and ease on the platform with clear enunciation and expressive gestures constituted his excellent delivery which won the first position.

Miss Welsh is learning another selection to present at the district event and is expected to carry off the honors. Miss Welsh made her first appearance in declamatory at the high school contest last year, where she secured first place, an excellent showing for the first attempt. She has made marked improvement since then.

Miss Catherine Sheridan, winner of the poetry medal and Victor Hemming of the extemporaneous, have completed their work as far as contests for competition. Their honors were fairly won after consistent preparatory work.

SENATOR FATHERS RADICAL TAX BILL

Senator Jones.

The most radical inheritance tax bill ever introduced in congress has been fathered by Senator Jones of Washington. According to the provisions of his bill, fortunes over $25,000,000 would be taxed 50 per cent. The tax is graduated and an exemption of $25,000 is provided for in case of bequests to members of the immediate family.

TAKES ACTIVE PART IN CAPITAL SOCIETY

Mrs. John W. Kern.

Mrs. John W. Kern, wife of the senator from Indiana, is well known both in Indianapolis, where her home is, and in Washington, where she spends a great deal of her time. She is to have presided over the recent breakfast to the wife of the president, but was unable to attend. Her efforts, however, contributed largely to the success of the affair.

Encourage Kindness in Children. Kindness is one of the habits that is latent in every normal child. It must be encouraged, and you may be sure that the child that is kind to animals and birds will be considerate in his treatment of persons. There is always something interesting in animals. Children love anything with life, and if taught to care for birds, fish or animals there will be a certain strength of responsibility that makes for good character.

TO GRADUATE CLASS OF FIFTY IN JUNE

Twenty-six Girls and Twenty-four Boys Will Complete Work at High School—Decide on Class Play.

From all indications at present, the graduating class this coming June at the local high school will exceed any of past years. At present it is estimated about fifty or more will receive diplomas. Others are expected to graduate, which are not included on this list, and who are making up work. About twenty-two boys and twenty-six girls are now sure of finishing, while the holdouts are expected to make up their back work in short order.

The play is now about decided upon, as the class met at seven-thirty this morning, to look over the production, "The Taming of the Shrew," by Shakespeare. The cast will be picked within the next couple of days. Mrs. Day is expected to make this year's play a greater success than any production given in former years, as the material is far superior to any which has been at hand on previous occasions, making it easier for Mrs. Day to select the cast in a shorter time.

FORUM LITERARY SOCIETY HOLDS REGULAR MEETING

The Forum held their regular meeting last evening at the high school. The program was unusually successful, and every member appreciated the various numbers. After the business, the following new committees were elected by the society to remain in office for the remainder of the year. Starting committee: Noyes, chairman, Ferguson and Franklin; debate committee: Bennett, chairman, Mouat and Fuchs.

The program was as follows. "Power of Railroad Brotherhood," Fuchs.

"The Biggest Job on Earth," Noyes. "The X-ray," Cummings.

"Extempore Topic," Greene.

Debate—"Resolved, that the president of the United States should appear in person, in the house, to present his own bills." Mouat and Schoof, on the affirmative, won a hard-earned decision of 2 to 1 over the negative, composed of Bennett and Ferguson.

FLOOD NEWS CUT BY "F" SCARCITY

Readers Have to Wait for Next Issue of Paper to Get Full Story.

The Monticello (Ind.) Herald had the facts about the Dayton flood. In accordance with its time honored policy of giving its subscribers all the news, the most vivid details of the inundation were prepared. Trained correspondents, skilled reporters and competent news agencies collected vast amounts of information that the public would have had except for mechanical shortcomings.

Unfortunately, the plant of the Monticello Herald is deficient in one minor respect. There are not enough "F's" and "R's" to go round. After the first few columns, in which repeated references were made to floods, correspondents began to send distress signals. A book of synonyms was resorted to, but did not materially relieve the situation. After the last "F" was exhausted, the story was cut off. The editor, in an apology to his readers yesterday, promised that when the type is distributed the story will be "continued in our next."

Vice President Tom Marshall of these United States is quiet, an ardent baseball fan. That he holds the national game in high regard is shown by a letter which he sent President Ban Johnson of the American League in acknowledgement of a season pass sent him. Tom says all the dirt accumulated on the baseball diamond is clean, a thing he as a Democrat can not say for all other diamonds in America.

The New York Yankees seem to be living up to their old reputation of being just about the most brittle baseball team in existence. Season after season they have suffered loss of standing in the pennant race because of injuries. Last season the outfield was shot to pieces. Now not a member of the field is fit to play his best game, on account of injuries, and Shortstop Derrick and Third Baseman Hartzell are on the hospital list. It isn't much use having a good ball team if it never is in commission.

Del Gainer, Detroit Tiger first sacker, says that the hardest ball for a first baseman to handle is the little roller that just eases along the base line. The first baseman's fingerless glove makes it hard to pick it up. Del's statement is "all right," an alibi, but all the same, there are a good many first sacker who do manage to get 'em, no matter how they come.

Close contests are expected in the annual University of Pennsylvania relay and athletic carnival, to be held at Philadelphia April 26. It will be the largest in the history of the event, more than 70 colleges having already entered.

A few years ago the Chicago Cubs tried out a young pitcher named Carney from Helena, Montana. His first appearance in the box was disastrous. "I thought," he yelled after the slaughter, "that some of those drives that cleared the fence were going clear to Helena." They might, returned Frank Chance, then Cub manager, as he made out his release, "but if you start now you can head some of them off before they pass the Dakota line."

Twenty-five dollars and five cents is the price of a beer to a member of the New York Giants if Manager McGraw finds out about it; $25 for the offense, and the five cents for the beer. McGraw explains—and the players know he means it.

George Stovall, manager of the St. Louis Browns, thinks that Dee Walsh, the youngster who has replaced Bob Wallace at shortstop, will be a second edition of Donie Bush, stellar shortstop of the Detroit Tigers. George says Dee is lightning fast and has a great whip. Walsh is a graduate of the St. Louis school.

Ty Cobb still maintains that he is ready to join the Detroit Tigers whenever President Noyes meets his terms. Ty says he has been told by club officials that he is worth all he asks, but that the club can't afford to pay it. Ty appears quite ready to wait all season unless Detroit comes across.

Johnny Kilbane, featherweight pugilistic champion who is to meet Joe Rivers in a scheduled twenty-round bout at Vernon, Cal., April 26, is bringing suppleness and strength to his wrists and forearms by daily labor over the washtub. The two ladies have kept Mrs. Kilbane too busy to do all the domestic work of the running camp, and Johnny is helping out with great vim.

Lefty Flynn, Yale fullback of last fall, who eloped with Irene Leary, a show girl, and was barred from returning to Yale, is said to be planning a separation from his wife and a re-joining to Yale and athletics. It is said that Lefty is in Europe and his wife back on the stage in New York, and that the athlete's parents are seeking to have the marriage annulled on the ground that Flynn was underage.

Manager "Red" Dooin of the Philadelphia Phillies, who has just finished a term of facing pitcher Eddie Plank of the Philadelphia Athletics in an exhibition series, considers Eddie a marvel. He says Nap Rucker of the Brooklyn Superbas is Eddie's only equal, and declares he wouldn't trade Plank, if he had him, for six major league players.

Manager Joe Birmingham, during whose regime as manager last fall the Cleveland Naps won 21 out of 28 games, counts on pepper and spirit to land the Naps in the first division this year. He announces that red hot baseball will be handed out by his team from start to finish of the season. Cleveland fans are quite willing to be imposed upon in this way.

Manager Hughie Jennings says that Al Klawitter, former member of the New Orleans Pelicans, looks like the most promising hurling recruit the Detroit Tigers have had in many seasons.

Mike Gibbons, St. Paul boxer of note, has been matched to meet Babe Saffo, Minneapolis welterweight, in a ten-round bout at Eau Claire, Wis., May 1.

Yearling Gregg, winning southpaw hurler of the Cleveland Naps, has abandoned and torn into shreds his famous red shirt, the sleeves of which swung like flails through the American League last year. He declares that it was a Jonah, and that he will stick to plain white in the future.

Talking about the difficulties and prejudices which the athletic calling still suffers, it is well to remember the recent harrowing experience of a Missouri college youth, who took an amble through the country-side dressed only in the usual abbreviated track togs. One farmer came out with a gun and warned him if he ever appeared that way again he would shoot his head right off. The youth failed to appraise, even when he explained that he was training for a marathon race.

A boxer who was pretty well beaten up in a fight at Scranton, Pa., has sued the club before which he appeared for recompense for the injuries he sustained. Next thing we know the actors will be claiming damages for too vociferous applause, on the ground that it jars their eardrums.

FANS LOOK FORWARD TO EXCITING GAMES

Three Amateur Baseball Teams Will Play in Janesville During the Coming Season.

Baseball is now launched in all its glory and Janesville is sure to be represented by at least three crack amateur teams this summer. Already the Pirates have entered the field and have challenged any team in the state, and the Cardinals and White Sox are in the progress of organization.

The Janesville Cardinals have in the past been one of the most successful teams in southern Wisconsin, meeting defeat only a few times during the last two years. This year's team promises to eclipse all others as the line-up that Captain Cronin will place in the field will be stronger than last year's team. Several new players will have an equal opportunity of making a place on the team and it is expected that the team will be the strongest contender for the city championship.

For the battery "Andy" Connell is slated to do the twirling as he has proven to be the most effective pitcher in Janesville in the past, having out-quit a mark in the Commercial League besides pitching many victories for the Cardinal team of last year. Either Jack Brown or Wilson, last year's catcher, will be behind the bat, and this department is sure to be well provided for by these two men. On paper the strongest part of the Cardinal appears to be the infield, having Fred Porter for first, G. Cronin at the keystone sack, "Skelly" Hell for short, with Ryan guarding third. All the players are probably the best in Janesville and the outlook for an air-tight infield is bright. The outer garden will be well taken care of by Porter, Burger, and Edler. While no games have as yet been scheduled the team is under the management of R. Enright and a good series of games will undoubtedly be arranged.

Janesville also has a team of great baseball ability in the White Sox, which is composed of younger players than the Cardinals. Despite their age they have a recognized record in southern Wisconsin as champions in their class. They have never been defeated by a team of their age in three years and defeated some of the strong teams their most notable victory being against the Edgerton "Sluggers," whom the fans of that city thought invincible. They have ordered new uniforms and expect to finish this season as they have in the past, undefeated.

WILL SNODGRASS REDEEM HIMSELF?

Fred Snodgrass, the goat in the world's series of last fall, who lost the baseball title of the globe for the New York Giants by miffing Engle's fly in the tenth inning of the eighth game with Boston, will be put to a real test this spring. Beyond a doubt he will be the target for the gibes of New York fans for going to come. Manager McGraw is going to play Snodgrass as a regular because he thinks he can stand the strain. Can he?

RACINE POLO TEAM TAKES FINAL GAME

Moose Players Do Clever Work But Fail to Stop Rushes of Opponents—Carnival is Held.

One of the largest crowds of the year enjoyed the carnival which the Moose polo team held to mark the close of the season last evening at the rink. The main feature of the celebration was a polo game between the Racine All Stars and the Janesville team. Superior knowledge of the game enabled the leaders of the league to defeat the locals by a 5 to 1 score, after one of the hardest contested games of the year.

The game during the first two innings was especially fast with Janesville outplaying her opponents much of the time. Schaffer and Kilmer starred for the Moose team as they were in the game at all stages and never ceased in their efforts to at least make the score close. Gaffey caged Janesville's only goal after it looked as if Racine was going to administer the whitewash. Connolly, Blank and Worthington all played excellent games but could not solve the formations of the stars on the Racine team. Racine, by winning this game, clinches the leadership of the Wisconsin Polo League while Janesville drops to two games behind them.

"Fritz" Reichert played his usual brilliant game, scoring two goals besides acting as mainstay in the team work. His slippery dodging proved to be the undoing of the Janesville team and his hard shooting or clever loft shots slipped past Worthington. The remainder of the team were all good players but their playing presented none of the mysteries that Reichert's did.

The playing during the first third was even and both teams battled for ten minutes without even getting a good shot at the goals. Reichert scored the initial goal after some clever dodging. Neither side scored again in this third. Blank was placed in Kilmer's place in the second third and played a commendable game. The Racine team started out with a rush and within a short time had the game on ice. Reichert, Tiede and Griffith each scored goals because of Janesville's poor defensive work.

Janesville had numerous opportunities to score but all attempts were blocked by Barker, the big Racine half back.

Janesville came back strong the last third and Gaffey scored the locals' loan goal in a close scrimmage play on after times was called. While Janesville was outclassed in many stages of the game the playing was hard fought and even during the first and last half.

Between the first and second thirds of the polo game the race was scheduled. As Fothergill, of Kenosha, failed to make his appearance, to race against Janesville's champion, Byrne, two other Janesville skaters of fame entered the event. The race was one mile or sixteen times around the floor. From the start of the race Byrne got away with a good lead and held it for the sixteen laps. The only thing exciting about the race was the closeness of the battle for second place. Gillis was unable to make the second turn and fell in a heap on the floor. Condon then led up to the seventh lap when Gillis caught up to him and they both stayed even to the finish when Condon fell, letting his opponent beat him out with a whirlwind burst of speed. The time was two minutes and forty-one seconds.

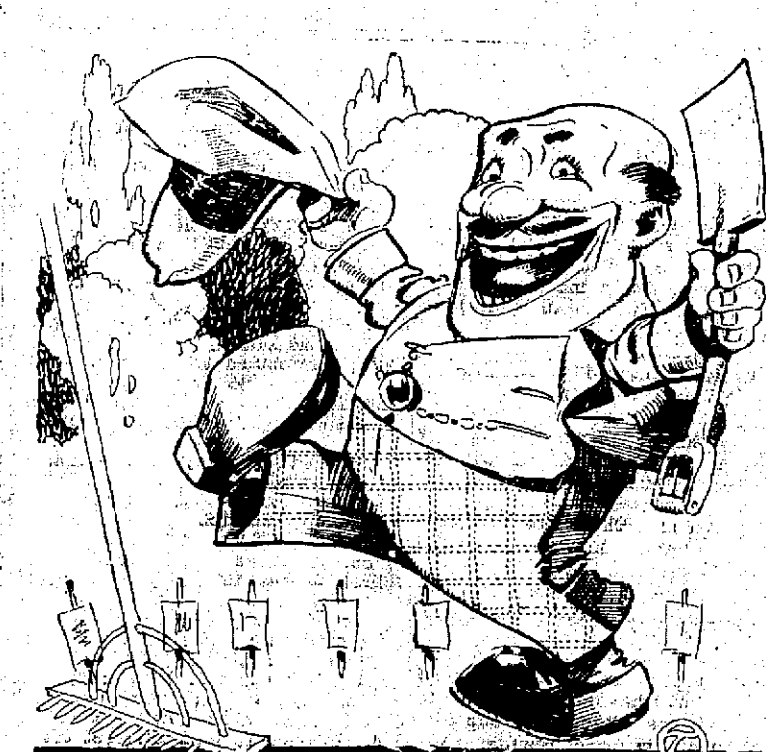

In the girls' race between two contestants, Josephine Griffin gained a lead over her competitor which she held throughout the race. The pie eating contest proved to be the best feature of the carnival and furnished plenty of amusement. Twelve boys entered the event and every one made away with the delicious blueberry in a remarkably short time. The contestants had their hands tied and were forced to eat half of a pie while on their knees, the pie being placed on a chair before them. After the signal was given to start twelve faces were seen to dive madly to the pie, and to come up covered with blueberries. Claude Navock was the first to get away with the entire pie and he was lifted as victor above the others by Referee Enright.

The carnival, marked the close of this season and unless the Moose team arranges a game at Racine, last night's contest will be the last polo game of the season.

Summary of Polo Game. Janesville Moose—First rush, Kilmer and Bluff; second rush, Gaffey; center, Schaffer, half back, Conolly; goal, Worthington.

Racine All Stars—First rush, Tiede; second rush, Reichert; center, Griffith; half back, Barker; goal, Ols. Goals—Reichert, 2; Tiede, 2; Griffith, and Gaffey, 1. Referee—Enright.

TONIGHT'S MEETING.
Tonight's mass meeting of citizens to organize a "Twenty-five Thousand Club" is an important epoch in the history of Janesville and doubtless will be well attended. It is the uprising of the people themselves in an effort to work in their own interests. It is for the people and by the people and the dues, one dollar for each member, give everyone an opportunity to have a voice in the questions at issue. Be a booster and join the procession behind the band and attend the mass meeting. Step to the front and voice your individual sentiments. It is not going to be any cut and dried affair, with plans all worked out before hand and the meeting merely a ratification of these plans. The decisions will be made at the gathering by those present. So be there and take part in the deliberations. Be a booster!

SHOULD HASTEN WORK.
Work should be hastened on the construction of the new bridge across the Rock river at Milwaukee street. If it is necessary to go before the legislature and secure special legislation to cut out long-drawn-out red tape requirements of the law in letting the contract it should be done. In the interest of business, this bridge should be rebuilt at once with the least possible delay. Not only should it be constructed at once, but built of such material that it will not only be lasting, but also a handsome structure, not an eyesore to the public. Now is the time to get busy and the citizens should urge the council to take speedy action.

BETTER PROTECTION.
Even though the Milwaukee street bridge is to be rebuilt, and the present, repaired structure has been declared safe by capable engineers, the approaches to the structure should be safeguarded by a more suitable manner than they now are. This is particularly true of the east approach from the Milwaukee side. Here, nothing but a hastily nailed up bits of wood, some of them charred from the fire, are nailed up in a haphazard manner. It might even be good policy to have a solid board fence along there as a protection to the general public. It should not be necessary to call attention to this fact, but apparently it is, and whoever is remiss should at once be called to account and matters remedied.

THE ROLLER TOWEL.
No more the roller towel will greet the eye of the tired traveler as he wanders into the hotel wash room. No more will the little germs delight to peek from beneath its covering of dirt to prey upon the unwary. Its race has been run. With the old-fashioned tub basin and the pump, it has gone into the realms of yesterday in Wisconsin and if the law is obeyed, should be as scarce as hen's teeth. By signing the bill passed by the legislature some weeks ago, Governor McGovern has provided that in the future only individual towels shall be used in hotels and public places. It will be interesting to note if the legislature sees that the law is enforced and does away with the roller towel in its own official wash-rooms just as it did the public drinking cup. However, the order will be welcomed by the travelers and benighted by the hotel proprietors and germs.

NATION VS. STATE.
The Christian Science Monitor discusses the present discussion between California and Japan in the following manner:
"Under recent administrations, when Pacific coast states have threatened to pass laws sure to increase tension between the United States and Japan, the federal executive officials have used persuasive arguments with state executives and law-makers to induce either withdrawal or modification of the legislation that was said to conflict with treaty pledges. President Wilson is not inclined to follow this policy. It savors too much, he thinks, of federal executive interference with a state's rights, even its right to err and be told so later by the federal supreme court. With the latter tribunal and not with the federal executive it must ultimately settle. The President does not omit to remark to Californians who consult him now, that he hopes that California will not be unmindful of the treaty obligations of the nation; but he disclaims authority to influence the state legislature in its choice and he trusts to the court to act summarily on petition of aliens who may feel aggrieved by any action taken by California."
"This method, while it may temporarily increase the risk of misunderstanding between the United States and Japan, insures a decision by the ultimate court that may have a decisive effect; and this is much needed. If the anti-Asiatic movement is to be formally indorsed as a national policy, the sooner the better for all concerned. If the national foreign policy is forever to be subjected to dislocation by unpredictable acts of the states, that fact should be made clear. Often compromise is defensible on ethical as well as practical grounds. Here is a case where it does not seem to be workable. Japan has a right to know, so that she can turn her tide of emigration, to an even greater extent than now, to places where a welcome awaits and not a ban.

"A majority of Americans, we are convinced, wish the national policy to be determined by a constituency as broad as the country is wide, and to be subjected to no discount as the result of state interference. Washington, and not Sacramento, must say the final word. On the other hand, this same majority of Americans also have no desire to see race problems increase. Such issues already are sufficient in number and in gravity without provoking another divisive factor in American life by encouraging multiplication of Asiatic competitors."

State Superintendent Cary must smile when he looks on the election returns and finds that he has thirty thousand clean majority over his opponent. The people were with him and demonstrate that they can be trusted.

Talk about free flour and free dressed meats from Canada by the very men who voted against Taff's Canadian reciprocity measure a year ago? It is like Satan preaching against sin.

In Belgium there is a remarkable strike in progress. One of folded arms. It is the public demonstration of the working man for his right of franchise and the outcome will be watched with interest.

McGovern and Ekern are still wondering who has the most power in the state of Wisconsin. Meanwhile Tom Portell continues as state fire marshal to the satisfaction of the general public.

Congress continues to decide matters of national importance relative to tariff provisions without any due consideration of the direct results.

COMMON SENSE.
In this age of specialization, fads, theorists, extremists and people running around in circles the saving grace of common sense is needed as never before.

It is needed, especially by public men. The American people as a whole possess not only a large fund of common sense, but also a very healthy sense of humor.

The public man who gets too far to one side in the pursuit of the "grotesque and arabesque" is in danger of exciting the risibilities of the populace. There has been more than one man in our history blown into oblivion on a gale of laughter.

The moment the antics of any cult or school start a guffaw across the continent it is all off with that cult or school.

The only safety from this real peril is common sense. It is hard to argue with a nation or a community laughing at you.

We are very tolerant of fads, but when they get too far from the line of common sense we laugh them off the stage.

Common sense is the essence of human wisdom and experience in all lands and ages.

It comes from real life, from actual contact with things. It fits Bill Jones down on his little farm on Possum creek, also Mr. William Pinckney Etheridge, art collector and globe trotter, of Pelham Manor—that is, if William Pinckney has not followed some fad that led him off at a mental tangent.

A robust supply of common sense is the first requisite for success in any and every calling.

It is the only safe guide for genius or clodhopper.

It is the fundamental requirement, without which there is nothing—the starting point for the pursuit of all special knowledge. It is as necessary as a thorough grounding of "the three R's" is necessary as a basis of higher education.

It is the foundation on which special knowledge and training constitute the superstructure.

Seek your first common sense; and all other things shall be added unto you.

APUR-MOMENT

The Germless Man.
Bill Tubbs came into this sad world 'way back in ancient days. Before the folks had started in the germ and microbe craze. He used to drink from old tin cups upon the railroad train. And never had a thought of death or even the slightest pain. No ptomaine poisoning for him; he ate just what he'd wish. And never stopped to sterilize a knife or cup or dish. He didn't seem to realize the chances that he took. And what he didn't know of germs would fill a large sized book.

He slept with windows closed at night whenever it was cold. For of the perils of bad air he never heard and been told. When he saw his jackknife made a slip and carved right through the fat. He tied a rag around his thumb and let it go at that. Snake bites would never worry him. He would chew up about a pound of plug and slap it on and draw the pizen out. There were no disinfectant towels or sanitary cash. Or treatises on how to dodge the microbes in the hash.

Old Bill kept fingerin' along as happy as a child. He violated all the rules of health that were compiled. The new ideas concernin' germs kept bobbin' up, but he paid not the least attention far as any one could see. The up-to-date folks warned him that he must reform or die. The microbes were just waiting for to send him up on high; but he remained the same old reckless, germ-defying Bill. And strange to say, in spite of all, he's hangin' round here still.

From the Hickeyville Clarion.
The members of Hank Tummas' lodge chipped in and bought him a handsome watchfob and now he has got to go and buy a watch to hang it on. There are times when every feller prays to be saved from his fool friends.

Anse Frisby placed an order for a new automobile down in the city the other day and the salesman said "Your new car will have a splendid finish." Anse said: "I'm glad of it. The last one I had, had a fierce finish. It tried to butt a street car off the track."

Elihu Simms says there ain't anything in this world like a good old corn-cob pipe and I guess by gravity, he's right. "At least there ain't anything in the world that smells like it."

A phonograph, with a rubber ear tubes, had just been installed in a music house in Hickeyville and the first customer to drop a nickel in the slot to enjoy the music was a farmer. The clerk handed him the ear tubes tubes, placed them in the proper position in the old man's ears and started the machine. The old man instantly dropped the tubes, and started for the door on the run, crying: "Thunder and lightning, hold on a minute, there's a brass band coming down the street, and there ain't nobody a-holding my team."

According to Uncle Abner.
I have never seen a burglar smoke a corn-cob pipe, especially when he was on the job. A rooster's tail ain't worth two bits on the roosters, but it makes a noise like $9 when it is on a hat in the milliner's window.

Elmer Jones says he met a swell chicken down to the city and she had so much confidence in him that she let him buy her a $4 dinner, but she had another engagement directly afterwards.

I always get suspicious of any feller who is too good dummed polite. It begins to look as though the combination union suit has come to stay.

I have seen a good many yaller dogs, but there ain't one of 'em that I don't respect more than the feller who makes remarks about wimmen. There ain't any feller who kin criticize a show more severe than the one who gets in on a pass.

A hot tempered woman never ought to wear celluloid combs in her hair. Codfish is a mighty nourishing dish, but it occurs too frequently in some lives to be fully appreciated.

SERIOUS NATIONAL CRISIS CONFRONTS BELGIAN PEOPLES

General Strike May Disrupt Government—Pains Taken to Prevent Revolutionary Outbreaks.

Brussels, April 15.—Belgium faces one of the greatest political upheavals in its history and it is difficult to foresee the final outcome. The general strike, ordered by the National Commission on Universal Suffrage, and endorsed by the Socialist Congress began Monday and the Government has taken the most extensive precautions to prevent revolutionary outbreaks and local disturbances. Generally speaking the strike may be considered an act intended as an expression of protest by the lower working classes against the refusal of the Government to grant a revision of the Constitution as demanded by the submerged classes.

The strike was to begin some time ago, but was postponed to allow time for another and final appeal to the government for the granting of certain reforms, including the introduction of universal suffrage, the abolition of the plural system of voting and certain changes in the educational laws of the country. The Government, which is controlled by the Clericals, refused to entertain the propositions and as a last resort the general strike was ordered.

Although upon its surface the present trouble is of a political nature, the underlying causes are really the racial, linguistic and religious differences between the Walloons and the Flemings, which constitute the two most important component parts of Belgium's population. The revolution early in the last century which freed Belgium from the Dutch control was effected chiefly by the Walloons, a French-speaking race, and the control of the government remained in their hands down to 1834. For the fifty years preceding the Flemings had been working to prevent the extinction of their language, which is virtually identical with low Dutch. The movement which was at first literary, soon assumed a political aspect. The Flemings, being Catholics, enlisted the support of the Clericals and at the election of 1884 they succeeded in obtaining control of the Government.

The Flemish or Clerical party, fully realizing its numerical weakness, fortified its position and sought to perpetuate its power by the plural system of voting which alone has been able to maintain them in control. Under this system fatherhood and certain property and educational qualifications entitle a voter to two or even three votes at all elections. This system has been extremely obnoxious to the enormous mass of poor and uneducated workmen, but all efforts to bring about a change of the system failed.

It was on June 4, 1912, that the dissatisfaction which had been steadily growing for years among Belgium's unfairly represented lower classes burst into the open, following the elections which retained in power the Clericals. The Government feared a revolutionary outbreak and as a matter of precaution mobilized the army and police force and called in the reserves. Armed forces were rushed to all the centers of excitement and Brussels was practically in a state of siege. There was a great ferment in the big coal mining district known as Le Borinage, of which Mons is the centre. The miners wanted to strike en masse and only with difficulty were they persuaded to abandon that plan. Since then the fight was continued by the working classes and everything prepared with a decisive coup. The Liberals joined hands with the Socialists and incorporated a demand for universal suffrage and the abolition of the plural system of voting upon their platform. The agitation was carried on with great energy and it is believed that the oppressed majority is well prepared to make its power felt in the present conflict.

The educational fight, which is one of the principal side issues of the present disturbances, is explained as follows: The Belgium schools of today are either Roman Catholic church schools or public schools. The schools are managed and subsidized by the communes alone and in the non-clerical communes there is a tendency to subsidize only the common schools. Broadly speaking, the desire of the Clerical Government is to place the church schools on the same financial footing as the public schools, the necessary funds to be provided by the communes, the province and the State. The opposition, however, demands that the church schools should be maintained by the church, not by the Government.

NO PAINT Ever Needed on this Roofing

The need of paint or gravel on a roofing is positive proof of its weakness—positive proof that the materials in the roofing would dry out, rot, rust, decay or otherwise deteriorate without such protection—positive proof that the roofing itself can't last long unless protected with a mineral.

Instead of a perishable animal or vegetable material only temporarily protected with a thin layer of mineral, such as paint, slag or gravel, J-M Asbestos Roofing is one solid mass of minerals. Not a particle of perishable material in it.

J-M Asbestos Roofing consists of layer-on-layer of Pure Asbestos Felt securely cemented together with genuine Trinidad Lake Asphalt. Asbestos is a rock or stone, and of course stone needs no paint to make it last. And the Asphalt Cement between these stone layers is the same mineral that has withstood the severe duties of street paving for forty years.

J-M ASBESTOS ROOFING

is an all-mineral roofing. It is the only ready roofing that never requires a single cent's worth of paint or other protection. Its first cost is its only cost.

Other ready roofings are a continual trouble and expense—for the paint and gravel wash and blow off and have to be renewed every few years. Because of its stone construction, J-M Asbestos Roofing is also rust-proof, rot-proof and acid-proof. And fire that will melt iron won't burn this roofing.

Simply send a postal and say "Send Sample of J-M Asbestos Roofing" and your handsomely illustrated Booklet.

INQUIRY NOT ENDED AS TO RECENT FIRE

Fire Marshal Purtell and Attorney Baker Will Make Further Probe in Recent Disaster.

While State Fire Marshal Thomas Purtell and Attorney Baker, of this department, spent all day Monday in Janesville making an investigation of the fire of April 1, they did not complete their work. Some twenty witnesses were examined and several others subpoenaed who were not heard at this time. The evidence all tended to show the rapid spread of the flames from the Archie Reid building to the remainder of the structure destroyed in a manner which is declared as most suspicious. In view of the fact that a wholesale arson corporation has recently been discovered in Chicago it is intimated that perhaps the Janesville fire was caused by an agent of some such corporation. Mr. Purtell refused to make an statement on the conclusion of Monday's hearings but stated that he considered the matter of enough importance to make a most thorough investigation. Several witnesses testified as to the density of the smoke and the overpowering fumes resembling oil or some such fluid when the fire first started. The majority of the owners of the business places which lost their all, were among those called to give testimony. Mr. Purtell expects to return to Janesville for a further hearing at an early date.

MAKE A TWO MILE RUN TO REACH CHIMNEY FIRE

Fire Apparatus From West Side Fire Station Called Out Early This Afternoon—Old Engine Tested.

Hose wagon No. 1, the chief's auto, and the fire police patrol made a two mile run this afternoon to the corner of Violet and Millmore streets, south of the Millmore bridge to respond to a silent alarm. The old fire engine from the Spring Brook fire station was also called out, but as the reason for the alarm was a mere chimney fire that was quenched by cleaning out the clogged chimney, it was not necessary to use either chemicals or the engine. As long as the engine was taken out it was decided to give it its periodical test. This did not prove very satisfactory, the engine showing very little power.

RE-ELECT A. C. GRAY CHAIRMAN OF BOARD

UNANIMOUS VOTE CAST FOR EVANSVILLE SUPERVISOR AT COUNTY BOARD MEETING.

BRIEF SESSION TODAY

E. C. Hopkins of Edgerton Named Vice-Chairman Without Opposition—Take Early Adjournment.

A. C. Gray of Evansville was re-elected chairman of the Rock county board of supervisors at the session which was called to order at two o'clock this afternoon at the county clerk's office. On motion of Supervisor Simon Smith of Beloit the clerk was instructed to cast a unanimous ballot for Mr. Gray who will occupy the chairman's seat for a second term. Supervisor E. C. Hopkins of Edgerton was elected vice-chairman of the board without opposition on motion of Supervisor M. P. Richardson of Janesville. The board adjourned before two-thirty on the motion of Supervisor Simon Smith, and will meet at ten o'clock tomorrow morning, when Chairman Gray will announce the list of standing committees.

All members of the board were present when the meeting was called to order except Supervisor J. L. Bear of Janesville, third ward, Henry Ebbott of Edgerton and John Morton of the town of Johnston. Aside from the matter of organization the only other business of importance was a resolution introduced by Supervisor Simon Smith providing that the offices at the court house be closed Saturday afternoon during the months of July and August. Mr. Smith explained that the resolution was made for the benefit of the county clerk whom he believed was being overworked. After the motion was passed Mr. Lee said he wished the board to understand that he had nothing to do with the introduction of the measure.

Electric Headlights to be Installed on Various Engines Running in Wisconsin.

Because of the recent law which the Wisconsin state legislature enacted to the effect that every locomotive that operates in the state of Wisconsin shall be equipped with electric headlights, both railroads that run through this city are preparing to install such equipment.

The Northwestern has taken active steps in electrifying their headlights. It was only after a hard struggle that the law was signed. The benefit of such legislation cannot be questioned but it will cost the railroad a large sum. Besides furnishing a better light which will penetrate a much farther distance than the old lights the new system is less liable to fail in its duty.

The next step in perfecting the headlights is suggested as a movable headlight which will enable the engineer to see the track while on a curve. Movements have been inaugurated to combine the two features of illumination by electricity and having them movable making a practically perfect headlight.

Work was started at the Northwestern yards Monday to the wiring and installing a small motor to provide power which is between the sand-dome and the whistle. The cab is to be provided with lights which will be generated from the motor. While it is expected that the Northwestern will electrify some of their engines at the yards, that most of the locomotives will be equipped with the necessary power at the Chicago shops.

The Saint Paul has done no work here as yet to heed the new law, all their work will probably be done in Milwaukee. On their main line all locomotives are already equipped with electric headlights.

START PROSECUTION ON BELOIT THEATRES

District Attorney Dunwiddie Awaits Word From Beloit As to Date for Hearing.

At three o'clock this afternoon District Attorney Dunwiddie had not heard from Beloit in regard to the date for the trial of the Beloit theatre owners who have been arrested for opening their show houses on Sunday.

Warrants were sworn out in Beloit by members of the Federated Brotherhood late Monday afternoon against the theatre owners for keeping their show houses open Sunday, and were served at once by constables, the men appearing in court at a late hour.

It was rumored on Beloit streets today that about seventy warrants would also be sworn out against those who attended the shows yesterday and who were recognized by the brotherhood who kept a lookout on the streets during the day, but this rumor was neither confirmed nor denied by any of the principals.

The shows opened about 2 o'clock Sunday afternoon and were packed with people all afternoon, many people waiting for the doors to open for the first show of the day. The evening performances were equally well attended, people flocking into the houses at every performance, while in the afternoon, until the theatres closed their doors late in the evening. The Lyric did not open.

The sight of the throngs on the streets Sunday was something very unusual for Beloit people to witness, the usual quiet appearance of the business streets on Sunday being conspicuous by its absence.

The offerings at the theatres consisted mostly of sacred and educational feature pictures with special music, and everything was carried out in the very best of order throughout.

One of the theatres has already planned to have the Italian band furnish the music for next Sunday in addition to their feature pictures.

What course will be pursued by the theatre owners when they are arraigned in court could not be learned this afternoon but that some great surprise is in store for citizens is imagined from remarks dropped by men familiar with the theatre owners' side of the situation.

Much appears to depend on whether or not the patrons of the shows Sunday will be summoned into court, and many who were in attendance Sunday have been kept on the anxious seat today, wondering if they will be summoned on the charge of violating the state law, regarding attending a theatre on the Sabbath.

The feeling existing between members of the brotherhood and the owners of the show houses has not abated in the least and both sides will make every effort within their power to hold the whip hand in the controversy which has arisen.

FIGHT TO KILL BILL PROVIDING A BOUNTY FOR CLEARING LAND

Measure Which Allows County Boards
To Pay $5 Bonus Meets Defeat
In Assembly—Other Matters Considered.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., April 15.—In the only fight of the evening session, the assembly killed a bill designed to allow counties to pay a bounty of $5 per acre for the clearing of wild land. The bill, introduced by Senator Linley, passed the senate last week. Northern Wisconsin members of the lower house attacked it last night as offering the wrong remedy, although none volunteered to say just what methods should be taken up in solving the problem of land development.

How Vote Stood.

The vote on the bill stood 61 to 14, and was as follows:

For non-concurrence—Allison, Anderson, Baringsale, Bingham, Bowe, Carpenter, Chinnick, Clancy, Dietrich, (August), Dietrich (J.), Dorn, Engrebert, Everett, Frederick, Goff, Gorkick, Grimsrud, Grinde, Hall, (Don C.), Hamata, Hansen, Hawn, Heden, Hinkel, Hoverson, Jennings, Jensen, Johnson (K. A.), Johnson (L. L.), Kiefer, Laursen, Laycock, Lentz, Mahon, Manning, McComb, Miller, Minkley, Murphy, O'Day, Ott, Pauli, Peavey, Reha, Richardson, Roessler, Roethe, Scamman, Sharp, Smart, Smith, Sommerfield, Stewart (I. N.), Viebahn, Vint, Walsh, Whiteside, Zillier, Zinn, 61.

Against non-concurrence—Estabrook, Gannon, Gullickson, Holmes, Hood, Johnson, (Axel), Kneen, Heland, Richards, R. A. Schmitzler, Stewart (T. A.), Urquhart, Speaker Hull, 14.

Absent or Not Voting, 25.

Assemblyman Peavey began the attack on the bill by saying the end did not justify the means, and that, giving counties power to allow bounties, none would make use of it. Axel Johnson, who said he believed, in home rule, endorsed the bill as an optional measure.

Assemblyman Mahon protested against this kind of legislation as inadequate to fit the conditions facing northern Wisconsin. The proposition was a "pretense and a sham," he declared.

Axel Johnson said that inasmuch as the city of Superior which pays $8 per cent of the taxes in Douglas county, was willing to pay thus for the benefit of outlying districts, it behooved the legislature not to ignore the apparent demand for some such legislation from the territory most affected.

Assemblyman Whiteside said that northern Wisconsin does not ask for charity, but want their rights protected. He was against the bill.

Assemblyman Rosa was a firm believer in the right of self-government, and the optional clause of the bill gave counties the opportunity to adopt the plan in favor of it. Don C. Hall was against it, as was Baringsale and Larsen. Mahon called the bill "pernicious" as he asked for a roll call.

Other Measures Passed.

Among the bills passed by the assembly were: Jennings, providing that all passengers not furnished seats in street cars after the time has elapsed after an order of the railroad commission within which to furnish additional cars, shall ride free; Nye, providing that commission government cities shall publish the city proceedings in newspapers; Manning, providing disclosure of information by physicians and surgeons; Jennings, authorizing all cities to appropriate not to exceed $5000 for the celebration of the Fourth of July; Peavey, creating the town of Bay, Bayfield county; Ott, providing for a fee of $5 for filing articles of incorporation of co-operative associations where the capital stock is under $500 and $5 for filing amendments; Jennings, establishing a civil court for Milwaukee county; Mahon, creating municipal court for Shawano county.

The following senate bills were concurred in: Linley, providing for selection of jurors in various municipal courts by commissioners; Kileen, denning the term "nighttime;" Kileen, relating to the action of quo warranto; Scott, providing that the county superintendent need not make report on the distribution of state printing on hand.

Matters Disposed.

The Nye bill providing that printing for state institutions outside of Madison may be done in such cities by contract was ordered engrossed.

The Milwaukee City club bills were laid over. The Estabrook bills authorizing counties and cities to subdivide or set aside territory for residential business, and factory districts were engrossed. The Jensen bill constituting fire department chief a deputy fire marshal was engrossed.

The senate ordered to third reading the Hull anti-discrimination bill. The bill was amended by Senator Kileen to provide that prosecutions under the act shall be the duty of the attorney general.

The Plennig bill forbidding misleading and deceptive advertisements was laid over.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 15.—The National Industrial Traffic League, composed of shippers and representatives of shippers' organizations throughout the country, held its spring meeting at the Hotel Iroquois in this city today, with J. M. Belleville of Pittsburgh presiding. Among the subjects discussed were incomplete freight bills, uniform classification, evasion by shippers of the interstate commerce law, federal jurisdiction over agency of interstate shipments, interpretation of demurrage rule, and weights to govern in the assessment of freight charges and storage of freight.

TO TRY YOUNG MAN ON MURDER CHARGE

Norman Bruce McCleary, Maryland Citizen, Alleged to Have Taken Life of Sweetheart's Mother.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Rockville, Md., April 15.—What promises to be one of the most notable criminal cases that has taken place in a long time was begun this morning, when Norman Bruce McCleary was arraigned in court to be tried for the alleged murder of Mrs. Nannie B. Henry of Hagerstown, mother of his former sweetheart, Miss Lupah Henry. The case was brought here on change of venue from Washington county.

Mrs. Henry was choked to death about the fifteenth day of last August, and several days later her body was found lying across a bed in her home at Hagerstown. At the request of the Hagerstown authorities, McCleary, a young man of good family, but a "little wild," was arrested in Washington, D. C. two days after the discovery of the murder.

McCleary is said to have been a suitor for the hand of Miss Lupah Henry, daughter of the murdered woman and a stenographer in the office of the Hagerstown municipal electric light plant. Miss Henry, it is said, did not look upon him with favor, and August 15 left Hagerstown on a vacation in order to escape the alleged unwelcome attentions of McCleary.

It is understood that the accused young man intends to maintain that he is guileless of the crime charged against him, notwithstanding that he is said to have signed a confession drawn up by the State's Attorney a few days after his arrest, in which he admitted that he had choked Mrs. Henry. Two of the leading law firms of Hagerstown and Rockville have been engaged to conduct the defense.

RAIN OF MISFORTUNES FOR A MANITOWOC MAN

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Manitowoc, April 15.—John Novak of this city can testify to the truth of the old saying that "misfortune never comes singly."

Novak was mixed up in a fight and received some pretty bad gashes on the face and arms, but escaped serious injury. Yesterday twenty minutes after he had started work at a local coal dock Novak was struck in the head by a sixteen pound coal bucket, dropped from twelve feet above him, and was laid out cold. He was taken to his home and last night a warrant was issued for his arrest on a charge of assault, preferred by a brother-in-law who mixed things in the fight previous to Novak's injuries. He will appear in court today.

"GRAND OLD MAN" TO BE COLLEGE COACH

Cy Young, the "Grand Old Man" of baseball, has been engaged to coach the ball team of Ohio University, Athens, Ohio.

Young retired from active playing a year ago, after over twenty years of service with major league teams. Most of that period was spent with Boston of the American League, and the battery of Young and Crisp was long known as the best in the league. Young was a shining example of the player who took care of himself.

Young, now over forty-five years old, spends most of his time on his farm at Peoli, Ohio.

JAPANESE PLAN TO ASK EXTENSION OF TIME

[BY ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

Tokio, April 15.—Japanese official circles are now inclined to the belief that nothing they can do will have any effect in averting the projected land ownership legislation of California. As soon as the bill has passed, however, application will be made to the federal government of the United States for an extension of naturalization rights to the Japanese. Otherwise the bill, it is said, will be a discrimination against Japan.

WEATHER-CONDITIONS.

April 15, 1913.—There has been little change in atmospheric conditions since yesterday. The ridge of high barometer in the Mississippi valley has weakened, but is still attended by fair weather. The area of low barometer on the Atlantic coast has remained stationary, and has continued to cause light rains in the East.

The area of low barometer in the west has gathered into a single center in Alberta and western Montana. Its influence extends over the entire west, producing local cloudiness and light rains on the north Pacific coast, and southerly winds and rising temperature on the Plains.

In this vicinity the weather will be fair and warmer.

CHICAGO ORCHESTRA HERE TWICE YEARLY A PROBABLE EVENT

Announcement Received With Acclaim
Following Appearance at Myers
Theatre Last Evening.

It is probable that an agreement will be reached for two engagements of the Chicago Symphony Orchestra (Thomas) at the Myers theatre every year, according to an announcement made by Manager Peter L. Myers today, after a conference with H. D. McGill, one of the managers, who was here last evening and today.

This tentative promise following last night's engagement will be received with the utmost approval and appreciation in Janesville and the neighboring territory with full realization that the possibility of hearing an organization of world repute twice a year in Janesville is an opportunity rarely given in cities of this size.

Last night's audience was double that which greeted the orchestra at its first appearance here last November. In fact it was the largest house which has been present at a musical entertainment of that character at the Myers theatre. Every person there was appreciative in the last degree of the superb program which was uniform in excellence from beginning to end.

The lay music lover as well as the artist was able to enjoy the entire list of selections so carefully had they been chosen with view to popular demands and so delightfully and artistically were they played. Under the direction of Mr. Frederick Stock the organization with nearly one hundred voices responded with unflinching vigor to every demand made upon them.

As far as perfection of execution was concerned there was no choice between one piece and another. It was simply a matter of personal taste and the applause indicated that Beeethoven's Symphony No. 5 and Wagner's Overture to Tannhauser were the best received.

Bruno Steindler with his solo violin and cello took the audience completely by storm. His fingering and execution was wonderful and the accompaniment of the orchestra added the right touch. He very graciously responded with two encores and were equally as delightful as the first selection.

Last night's program follows:

First: Mr. Bruno Steindler.
Overture, "Carnival".....Dvorak
Symphony No. 5, C Minor, Opus.....Beethoven

Allegro con brio.
Andante con moto.
Allegro.

Admission:
Music for Violoncello and orchestra

Suite: "The Wand of Youth".....Serafin
March: "The Little Bells".....Elgar

Yorke Bear: "Wild Bears".....The
Yorke Bear: "Leningrad".....Wagner
Overture: "Tannhauser".....Wagner

The orchestra left today for Madison where they will fill an engagement tonight which will also be their second appearance in the Capitol City this season.

DINNER STORIES

God was fond of all-inclusive prayers, and one night she offered the following discriminating petition:

"Lord, please bless mother and father and all of us, and give us everything good."

thing good, and please bless our friends and give them what is good for them."

A retired clergyman tells a good story on himself. He used to officiate occasionally as a vacation supply in a suburban church. One Sunday he was accosted by an old lady, a member in the employ of a

"Want to tell you, sir," she said, "much I enjoy going to church the days that you preach."

The clergyman said, he was very much gratified to hear it.

"Oh, sir," she added, with appalling candor, "I get such a good seat then."

A young mill hand, having lost his sweetheart, through his own hot-headed folly, first threatened to commit suicide, and then became vulgarly insistent in his demands for the return of the presents he had given her.

"What good will they do you if you're going to drown yourself in the millpond," she scoffed.

"Never you mind. I want them back," he said evasively.

"Very well, then, that you have them," the girl reluctantly agreed.

But five days passed, and the young man still bemoaned the loss of the forfeited trinkets. Once more he requested their return.

"Oh, lad, I wish you'd stop worryin' me," sighed the girl, anxious by now for reconciliation. "I've given 'em to you long since. They're waiting for you at the bottom of the millpond tied up in a red handkerchief; you can't miss 'em but see 'em when you jump in."

Forecasting The Weather

Heating and Cooling of the Weather.
In this short treatise of the processes of the heating and cooling of the atmosphere, it is deemed unnecessary to explain the causes of the change of the seasons, or why a change of conditions is experienced with a change in latitude on the earth's surface.

It has been found that oxygen and nitrogen absorb very little of the solar radiation during its passage downward through the atmosphere, and that most of this function is performed by the water vapor although the dust particles are also a factor. Since the water vapor practically disappears at an elevation of about 6 miles, it follows that the absorption of heat is very slight beyond that distance, and even at elevations of 4 or 5 miles it is small as compared with that at lower altitudes. From the fact that one-half of the atmospheric gases and more than four-fifths of the moisture lie below an elevation of 3 1/2 miles, it becomes evident that much more than one-half of the total absorption of solar heat takes place in these lower air strata.

Fully one-half of the solar radiation is ordinarily absorbed in its passage downward through the atmosphere, and of that which reaches the earth's surface a portion is absorbed while the remainder is reflected and is largely taken up during its outward passage through the moist lower air strata. The heat that is absorbed by the earth's surface is being constantly radiated and supplemented that which is directly absorbed by the air. Also heat radiates more rapidly from a dry atmosphere than from a moist one, and thus as the moisture content decreases with increased elevation there is a corresponding increase in the rate of radiation.

In considering the conditions which affect the relative temperatures of the upper and lower air strata, we must admit another important factor which is of a dynamic character. When warm surface air is carried upward by rising currents the pressure upon it decreases steadily by the weight of air that is left below, and according to Boyle's law the gases must expand at such a rate that their density shall be constantly proportional to the pressure that they support. The work of expansion is performed against the force of gravity and consumes heat, thus lowering the temperature steadily at about the rate of 1 degree for every 270 feet of ascent. Conversely, if air from great altitudes is carried toward the earth, the pressure upon it increases constantly and reduces its volume, but in this instance the work is performed on the air by the attraction of gravity and thus raises its temperature.

By combining all these conditions it may be readily understood that the air strata near the surface are warmer, and that ordinarily the temperature decreases with increase of elevation. However, we sometimes have conditions known as inversions, in which the temperature increases with elevation for a few thousand feet. Also beyond the limits of the moisture content the temperature of the atmospheric gases is believed to be nearly constant at all elevations. The foregoing explanations account for the perpetual snow and ice on the tops of our loftiest mountains.

A water surface reflects a large portion of the heat that reaches it, while another large portion is used in the evaporation of moisture. The comparatively small amount that is absorbed warms the surface but little as it penetrates to a considerable depth. On the contrary, a land surface absorbs heat rapidly, reflects very little, and only a small portion is used in the evaporation of moisture. The portion that is absorbed does not penetrate deeply, and hence a given amount of heat will warm a land surface about four times as much as it will a water surface. Inasmuch as the heat penetrates the water to a considerable depth, it is retained and radiates back slowly, while on the land it remains near the surface and radiates rapidly. A land surface heats and cools faster than a water surface, and consequently the temperatures over the continents are subject to greater extremes and more rapid changes than those over the oceans. The difference between the conditions over the land and over the water are not so noticeable in the coast districts because of the equalizing effects of the land and sea breezes, but there is a marked contrast between those over the interior of the continents and far out over the oceans.

From the foregoing it can readily be understood how very unequally the atmosphere is heated. The change of the seasons; the different latitudes with the consequent varying angles at which the sun's rays penetrate the atmosphere; the oceans and the continents; the mountains and the valleys; the sand deserts and the verdant fields; the clear skies and the varying cloud formations are all contributing factors to the unequal heating that keeps the atmosphere in continual motion.

Northwestern League Gets Away.

Seattle, Wash., April 15.—The Northwestern league, one of the oldest and most successful of the baseball organizations west of the Rockies, started the season of 1913 today. Vancouver opened at Tacoma, Portland at Spokane and Victoria in Seattle. September 28 is the date fixed for the finish of the pennant race.

FORTY YEARS AGO

Janesville Daily Gazette, April 15, 1873.—Suicide.—For several days our columns have been filled with accounts of suicides or attempts at suicide and we would forego the duty of telling of adding to an already unpleasant record, but today's developments compel us to place one more unfortunate on the list. Hattie Bay, residing with her widowed mother, has been sick for the last year with a spinal complaint, which gradually increased in severity until it began to affect her brain. Since September she has been confined to her bed most of the time, which made her an object of unceasing care of her mother, who has not deemed it necessary to keep a careful guard by night over her daughter, as she did not apprehend any danger from her. She therefore retired late last night, after attending to the wants of her patient. At two o'clock this morning she visited her daughter's sleeping room and found her sleeping quietly. At six o'clock this morning a neighbor discovered the windows to the sick girl's room were open. Deciding that something was wrong she hastened to the house, aroused her mother, and together they hastened to the sick room and found the girl missing. Search was at once instituted, but thus far it has been without avail. The girl left home with nothing on but her night-clothing and was barefooted. She was tracked to within a short distance of the river where the footprints ceased. The spot is in the vicinity of the "big rock" and the dam. The supposition is that she either fell or jumped off into the river. Parties have been busy dragging the river in those localities since morning, but as yet have not gained any trace of the missing girl.

There has been loud complaints throughout the state on account of the destruction of the hop crop because of the severity of the winter. But contrary reports were brought to this office showing that only one plant in five acres, in one field, was harmed. The rest were vigorous and alive.

A western telegraph report says that Captain Randall of this city, reports an engagement with the Apaches, in which he killed seven warriors and captured seven women. Mr. Randall will be able to put a few notches in his gun then.

HANDS ITCHED AND BURNED

So Sore Could Not Close Them. Started With Rash, Just Terrible. Broke Into Sores. Could Not Sleep. Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured Him Entirely.

Abbotsford, Wis.—"My son had eczema on his hands for about one year. The eczema started with a rash. His hands were so sore he could not close them, and when he did he would scratch them. He would break out into sores. He could not get any rest or sleep, and his hands looked awful bad."

"We had tried all the salve and it kept getting worse all the time. I got some Cuticura Soap and Ointment, and after washing his hands with the Cuticura Soap and putting some of the Cuticura Ointment on two times a day and tying cloths on them for about six months they got well and have not broken out since. Cuticura Soap and Ointment cured him entirely."

(Signed) Mrs. Laurence Kish, Feb. 15, 1912. Not only is Cuticura Soap and Ointment more valuable in the treatment of eczema and other distressing eruptions of skin and scalp, but no other emollients do so much for pimples, blackheads, red rough and oily skin, itching, scaly scalp, dry, thin and falling hair, chapped hands and chapped lips, nor do it so economically. Sold throughout the world. Liberal sample of each mailed free, with 32-p. Skin Book. Address Postmaster, Dept. T, Boston. For tender-faced men should use Cuticura Soap Shaving Stick, 25c. Sample free.

SIDEWALK SKETCHES

CHEWING GUM.

By Howard L. Rapp.

CHEWING gum is a mild beverage which has the effect of imparting to the human countenance the benign and introspective look of the mooly cow. There is something about ten or fifteen cents' worth of gum, tucked in a kittenish fashion just inside the left cheek, which gives the wearer a chaste look of perfect peace.

Chewing gum is made principally out of automobile tires which have seen their last puncture. When an aged tire has had several blow-outs, caused by a running anybody of the kind, it is sold to a gum factory, chopped up fine and sprayed with a very low order of perfume. It is then cut into strips and sold to people who are blessed by nature with a set of double-acting jaws.

The best brands of chewing gum are guaranteed to cure every human ailment except freckles on the nose. All gum makers advertise that their gum is a never-failing specific for indigestion, rebellious feelings in the stomach, nervous headache, toe cramps, muscular rheumatism, and the clinging aroma of the boiled onion. A great many men chew gum immediately after smoking in order to deceive a fond and trusting wife, who cured her husband of the tobacco habit by inserting Rough on Rats in his coffee.

Gum is sold in large quantities to theatre goers, who vibrate noisily between acts and keep time with the opening overture in a rapt and pre-liminary manner. Some people are so fond of them that they take it to bed with them and either swallow it in an unguarded moment or affix it to the head of the bed, where it can be found by a small brother and made to do double duty.

Once firmly installed, the gum chewing habit is harder to get rid of than a languid third cousin on your mother's side who drops in for a couple of days. It is a harmless pastime, however, and is far better than filling the face curtains full of cigarette smoke.

ANOTHER GREAT BOOK BONANZA

CYCLOPEDIA FOR READERS OF THIS PAPER.

A $12 set of up-to-date reference books may be obtained for $2.35 and a coupon cut from the Gazette—five instructive volumes, that will complement any library.

For many years there has been an urgent need for a convenient work of reference. Every publisher who has issued an encyclopedia has seemed to have a desire to make it as large as possible without regard to convenience and what is more regrettable, the object seems to have been to incorporate as many words as possible in order to fill space and thus increase the size of the volume. So, while there are books of this nature on the market, they do not meet the requirements of the general public, for the reason that most of them are too large and unwieldy.

Taking all of this into consideration, the publishers of Everybody's Encyclopedia have just issued this complete work in one set of five volumes, not only of convenient and usable size in dimensions, but without the usual verbose descriptions. In fact, with the sole idea of giving the reader just the information wanted, on every subject in a simple straightforward manner that is easily and quickly comprehended.

For $2.35 and a Coupon.

Readers of The Gazette may obtain these books on the popular coupon plan explained elsewhere in this issue.

Everybody's Encyclopedia in five volumes is a big bargain. The regular selling price is $12 per set, but on April 18 and 19 and Friday and Saturday of each week thereafter until further notice, readers of The Gazette can have this wonderful set for $2.35 by presenting at this office one coupon, as explained on another page.

The sets are too bulky to be sent by mail, but out-of-town readers can have them sent by express, shipping charges to be paid by the receiver.

This edition comprises 35,000 subjects in all departments of knowledge, including biographical sketches, chronological history and educational facts from all sources, through the entire world. Its five volumes are filled with interesting information on all classes, and as its name implies, Everybody's Encyclopedia represents the equivalent of a valuable library of modern reference works and text books for everybody.

Accurate and Up-to-date.

Accurately compiled from the latest and best recognized sources of authority, Everybody's Encyclopedia, while dealing with every branch of existing knowledge, introduces hundreds of new subjects, covering all recent advances in the progress of the world, right up to the date of publication.

This has been made possible by expending the work on the novel and modern principle of the card index, and by adopting modern methods of organization, preparation and production, the reverse of the laborious old-time principle, which made all previous encyclopedias antiquated before they were completed.

During the long and expensive period of careful compilation and editing, the continual addition of "new knowledge" in this way has kept the work abreast of the time, and this plan of superlative advantage to editors, students and readers, renders Everybody's Encyclopedia unique among reference works, as containing the latest knowledge, the facts of recent days, of the world's progress during the year just passed, which workers and students frequently have greater need to refer to than the knowledge of all previous days.

Money Back If You Want It.

The Gazette positively guarantees to refund the amount paid by any reader who finds after receiving Everybody's Encyclopedia that it is not entirely satisfactory and as represented.

As previously mentioned, these sets through The Gazette on the popular coupon plan. Read the announcement on another page of this issue and clip the coupon today.

ACCIDENT REPORT SHOWS INCREASE

Monthly Report of Persons Killed or Injured During March Shows Slight Increase Over Last Year.

During the month of March the accident bulletin issued by the Northwestern railroad company shows a slight increase in the number of people injured while the death report is the same as last year. Because of stringent work of the officials against accidents during the last two years the injury column has decreased 553 and deaths twelve compared to the statistics of the year of 1910.

The number of employees killed last month was six and the injuries numbered 451. The three divisions that run through Janesville have a remarkably small number of deaths and injuries, the Wisconsin division having only six injuries, the Northern Wisconsin 12, and the Madison, one death and 31 injuries. More employees were injured in the shops and roundhouse than in any other line of railroad work these being 91 injured under this classification. In 1910 there were 9 employees killed and 770 injured during the month of March.

Under the non-employee classification there were 11 killed and 28 injured. As has always been the case the trespassing list shows the greatest number of death and injuries, having on this report a total of eight on the Madison division there were two killed and 34 injured while on the Wisconsin there were only 13 injured. The Northern Wisconsin shows the highest rate there being 6 killed and 66 injured, this number, however, is about the same as last year at that time. Every monthly report shows that the efforts of the different safety committees are accomplishing what Mr. Richards the chairman of the general safety committee set about to do.

The total number of deaths on the entire system was 18, and injuries amount to 521 while in the year of 1910 there were 30 killed and nearly a thousand injured, showing the progress the road has made in three years time and every report, with a few exceptions, is showing a decided decrease.

Every Home Needs This Fine Remedy

A Mild, Reliable Laxative- tonic is Something No Family Should be Without.

No well-regulated home should be without a laxative for there is scarcely a day in a family of several persons that someone doesn't complain of a headache, of sleeplessness, or slow the first signs of a cold.

A laxative then becomes a necessity, of what was a trifling congestion at the beginning may run into a serious cold or fever. No harsh remedy is needed, but simply a mild laxative tonic, that will make the liver active and stir up the bowels. People who have tried a great many things, and are themselves heads of families who have seen the little pills run to big ones, will tell you that there is nothing better than Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain at any drug store for fifty cents or one dollar a bottle, the latter being the family size.

Among the great believers in Syrup Pepsin for constipation in old or young, and as a general household emergency remedy, is Mrs. J. W. Anderson, Osawatomie, Kas., who writes after using one sample bottle and two dollar bottles of Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin: "On the plea of the duty that every one owes to fellow sufferers I appeal to all such who are bowed in spirit, broken in health and discouraged with life, not to give up until they have given Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin a fair trial." Syrup Pepsin is scientifically compounded and its purity is vouched for. Mothers give it to tiny babies, and grown people take a little larger amount and find it equally effective. It is mild and gentle, pleasant tasting and free from gripping.

It does not hide behind a big sounding name and is absolutely free from any prohibited ingredients. Families who once use Syrup Pepsin forever after avoid cathartics, salts, pills and other harsh medicines, for these only do temporary good, are nauseous and a shock to any delicate system. Such things should never be given to children.

If no member of your family has ever used Syrup Pepsin, and you could like to make a personal trial before buying it in the regular way, postal will do— to Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 417 Washington St., Mantiello Ill., and a free sample bottle will be mailed you.

Classified Seed Column Boon to Farmers

MEN WHO HAVE MADE A STUDY OF GRAIN SEEDS KNOW THAT IT TAKES YEARS TO ACCLIMATE SEED TO WISCONSIN CONDITIONS. THEY ADMIT THAT THE BEST SEED FOR THE AVERAGE WISCONSIN FARMER'S PURPOSE IS THAT GROWN IN THIS STATE. CAREFUL SELECTION RATHER THAN NEW SEED IS THE ADVICE THEY OFFER. FOR ROCK COUNTY FARMERS NO SEED CAN EQUAL THAT RAISED IN THIS COUNTY. BE SURE YOU ARE GETTING THE BEST HERE AND YOU MAY REST ASSURED THAT THERE IS NO BETTER TO BE SECURED.

In the past it has been difficult to find local men with seed for sale. Not that they were not here, but that there was no means by which they could be located. To overcome this the Gazette has opened in its Classified Page a

A Farm Seed Classified Column

Here can be found a list of local dealers and farmers who have seed for sale. To men who have seed for sale it offers a market of the 3000 farm homes that the Gazette reaches each day. To the many who wish to buy seed it offers a ready index of the dealers in his kind of grain. Both can use it with results.

The Evening Chit-Chat

BY RUTH CAMERON

AS THE TWIG IS BENT—

THE laundryman, for some unknown reason, was two days late with the laundry, and the head of the family discovered one morning that he hadn't a single clean collar.

"Where are the clean collars?" he called to his wife. She left the toast to burn and hurried into the bedroom to answer him. "Why, the laundry hasn't come," she explained apologetically. "I don't know why; it never was so late before. I'm awfully sorry." Her tone was extremely apologetic, and her manner most deprecating. Now the head of the house, who did not know exactly what heads of houses did under such circumstances, but when he heard his wife's apologetic tone, he took his cue from that. Evidently he was expected to blame her, and so he did. "I'd like to know what I'm going to do," he growled in a most accusing manner. "Here it is half-past seven, and I haven't a clean collar to put on. I suppose I'll have to use one of those half dirty ones. Give me the laundry bag. I wish you'd see that I don't get caught like this again."

Of course she hastened to hand him the bag; and of course she promised not to offend again as humbly as if she had really been to blame; and, of course she was very sweet and solicitous at breakfast to atone for the sin she had committed, and of course he graciously relented, as heads of houses usually do when they have relieved their minds by blaming someone for their annoyances.

And lastly, of course that man is going to develop into a household bully. Twenty years from now he will be a confirmed tyrant in his home. Why shouldn't he be? A wrong attitude at the beginning means an ever-widening breach between what is and what ought to be. The wife who wants to live with a reasonable, just husband, and not a tyrant, will not invite her husband to blame her for things that are not her fault.

She will sympathize with him for his annoyances; and try to help him out of them, but she will not apologize for them when she knows she is entirely guiltless.

It's a tremendous relief to the mind to have someone to blame for anything that annoys you. Therefore when a wife shows that she is willing to be reproached for every unpleasant thing that happens, whether it is really her fault or not, do you blame the husband for using this safety valve whenever he has a feeling of annoyance?

I don't. At least no more than I blame the wife for taking that attitude. Good husbands, like good children, must be trained from the very start. TALKS WITH MOTHERS

(By Gertrude Stevens Ayres.)

A Montessori Lesson.

Little Charlotte is eighteen months old, and is usually the case with healthy children of that age, is very much interested in all things within reach.

She has been trained from early infancy to "look at but not touch" certain things that are "mother's" or "father's." When just able to move on the bed, by a "hitching" process understood only by herself, she would sometimes reach out for the shining safety pins laid for a moment near her. Never were they taken from her, but she was taught they were "mother's" and "baby" may look at them but may not touch them. So today, as she toddles all over the house, mother's work basket full of bewitching spoons and patterns and half made dresses, father's pile of magazines and grand-mother's plants are unmolested, although all are within easy reach of the baby fingers.

This mother believes that this is the time in the child's life to lay the foundation for a respect for the property rights of others.

Not once in all her short life have the little hands been punished because of their investigating tendencies. For the mother, using Montessori ideas, realizes that "it is her function to direct the psychic activity of the children and their physiological development," not to punish the psychic activity.

Today after amusing herself for an hour while mother sewed, she came with uplifted face and pleading voice, asking to be taken up. The sewing was laid on the table within easy reach and the mother watched.

The first thing that attracted the little one's attention was the shining thimble. This was not new to her, and so after putting it on different fingers, it was laid aside for the scissors. These too she had often had; so, after testing the "point," to see that it was really "sharp," and would "prick the baby," as mother had so often said, the little eyes found the needle.

Now she had something in her hands that she had never had before. "Needle" was the word spoken by the mother. Words are weighty matters to the baby intelligence, and each one needs careful interpretation, just as when an older person attempts to learn a foreign language.

With eager fingers and shining eyes this new object was examined. "Point" said the baby voice, and again "Prick." These were words known and used for many weeks. Mother again said, "Needle," and the baby attempted the new word but finding two syllables a little difficult she succeeded in saying only the first.

Now began her first lesson in sewing. Thread tied in the eye of the needle was the next step. Then the little hands were guided until the point of the needle passed through the cloth and could be grasped from the other side. With gurgles of delight Charlotte watched the long tail of thread come through the cloth, pulled by the needle in her own fingers. The joy of accomplishments was hers.

The most important idea for the mother who is interested in new methods is the one of silence. No words had been spoken during the entire time except the one word "needle," and the baby prattle.

Superscience.

Modern science is that practical knowledge of truth that urges us to feel an oyster's pulse and look at its tongue before we eat it.

WALKING SUIT MADE IN A SINGLE PIECE

Lacroix of Paris is the designer of this charming one-piece walking suit. It is made of copper-colored tulle. A distinctive feature is the narrow face collar.

Every housewife knows how provoking it is to have the under crust of pies soak. If they will butter the crust before filling is put in, it will be as nice and flakey as the top crust. Especially is this well worth using when making custard, cream or pumpkin pies.

Too Neighborly Neighborliness

SOMETIMES I wish I lived in New York," said the suburbanite, regretfully.

"Why?" asked her friend. "Because I am told that in New York, you never know your neighbors. I have heard it said you can live in an apartment house there, all your life, and never know who has the flat next to you, or the one above or below."

"That's true," said the friend. "My sister lived in New York for seven years, and she said it was the most unneighborly place she was ever in. She couldn't stand it, and moved away."

The suburbanite sighed. "I should think it would be heavenly," she said, enviously.

"What in the world is the matter?" asked her friend. "In the first place," replied the suburbanite, "I never have a moment's peace. I have a neighbor who is the kindest-hearted woman in the world. She is always doing something for me, loving, thoughtful things—of their kind. But she doesn't seem to know what the word 'privacy' means, or that a person has a right to a certain amount of privacy. She is in my house morning, noon and night. There doesn't seem to be any hour of the twenty-four when she doesn't think she is privileged to walk in. Honestly, I never have a moment I can feel I can call my own. I never enjoy any more a sense of peace, a feeling that I know I will be undisturbed for an hour or so. You have no idea what an awful state that is, to feel that you haven't a minute when you may not be disturbed. Of course, you expect interruptions from your family; but to have a comparative stranger bounding in, as a continuous performance, is hard on your nerves."

The suburbanite sighed again. "I have an idea, I'll move to New York," she concluded. "Just to get a little privacy and peace. There may be such a thing as too little neighborliness, but there is also such a thing as too much neighborliness. It can be overcome as well as undone. People think they are only being kind. But I've heard of folks being killed by kindness. And I fear I'm on the road to the grave or the lunatic asylum, unless I move to New York."

Then she sighed again and gazed with melancholy eyes upon the fresh spring landscape.

Bar-de-duc Preserves.

These preserves are believed to be the finest of their kind and have hitherto been imported at extravagant prices. Other fruits besides currants may be treated in this way, as honey is of itself a preservative. These preserves do not require to be kept absolutely airtight, but should be kept cold.

Take selected red or white currants of large size, one by one; carefully make an incision in the skin 1/4 of an inch deep with tiny embroidery scissors. Through this slit remove the seeds separately with the aid of a sharp needle, preserving the shape of the fruit. Take the weight of the currants in honey, and when this has been heated add the currants. Let it simmer a minute or two, and then seal as for jelly. The currants retain their shape, are of a beautiful color, and melt in the mouth. Care should be exercised not to scorch the honey; then you will have fine preserves.

Honey Cereal Coffee.

Materials—One egg, one cup honey (preferably dark), two quarts wheat bran.

Directions—Beat the egg, add honey and lastly the bran and stir until well blended. Put in oven and brown, stirring frequently and being careful the oven is not too hot. To prepare the coffee, allow one heaping tablespoonful to a cup of hot water and boil for at least ten minutes. This is inexpensive and delicious.

Honey Graham Biscuits.

Materials—Two cups graham flour; two cups white flour; one-half cup butter; one-half cup honey; five teaspoons baking powder; one-half teaspoon salt.

Directions—Sift the flour and baking powder well together, rub the butter into the flour thoroughly. Add the honey and just enough sweet milk to make a soft dough. Roll out and bake in a quick oven.

The housekeeper should keep her honey in a "dry" warm place, where temperature is none too warm.

MRS. MANGES ESCAPES OPERATION

How She Was Saved From Surgeon's Knife by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.

Mogadore, Ohio.—"The first two years I was married I suffered so much from female troubles and bearing down pains that I could not stand on my feet long enough to do my work. The doctor said I would have to undergo an operation, but my husband wanted me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound first. I took three bottles and it made me well and strong and I avoided a dreadful operation. I now have two fine healthy children, and I cannot say too much about what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me." Mrs. LEE MANGES, R. F. D. 10, Mogadore, Ohio.

Why will women take chances with an operation or drag out a sickly, half-hearted existence, missing three-fourths of the joy of living, when they can find health in Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound?

For thirty years it has been the standard remedy for female ills, and has restored the health of thousands of women who have been troubled with such ailments as displacements, inflammation, ulceration, tumors, irregularities, etc.

If you want special advice write to Lydia E. Pinkham Medicine Co. (confidential) Lynn, Mass. Your letter will be opened, read and answered by a woman and held in strict confidence.

Alfalfa Reduces Temperature.

It has been learned by actual experience that alfalfa planted on the south and southwest of the homes of those western farmers will reduce the temperature from six to fifteen degrees on one of those hot, sultry days. There is a cool breath from the alfalfa field all the time. The difference in temperature from the south to the north side of a large field of alfalfa is shown by actual tests.

THE PURCHASE PRICE; OR, THE CAUSE OF COMPROMISE

By EMERSON HOUGH

Copyright, 1910, by Emerson Hough

"As to that, I cannot tell. You have brought me into this situation. I must escape from it in my own way."

"You sting me deeply. A thousand times you yourself have made me ashamed. Come, when we part, shall it not be as friends? You have won my respect, my admiration. I wish I were entitled to your own. You've been perfect. You've been splendid."

"Look," she said, without raising her eyelids.

He turned. Dunwoody was making his way toward them among the tables.

"My dear senator," said Carlisle, choking down his wrath as the Missourian reached them and bowed his salutations. "I have the greatest pleasure in the world in keeping my promise to you. I am delighted to have you join our little party at this time. You remember the countess—I would say, Miss Burton."

"I have not so soon forgotten," answered Dunwoody. His commanding eyes still sought her face. Beyond a slight bow and one upward glance she did not display interest, yet in truth a sudden shiver of apprehension came into her heart. This was a different sort of man she now must endeavor to handle.

That she had asked the aid of this newcomer was a fact known to all three of them. Yet of the three, none knew precisely the extent of the others' knowledge. Dunwoody at least was polite, if insistent, in his wish to learn more of her.

"I am sure the fatigue of the journey across the mountains must have left you quite weary," he ventured, addressing her.

Josephine St. Alban showed no sign of perturbation as she answered: "Not so weary as busy. The duties of an amanuensis leave one small time for recreation." Her face was demureness itself.

Carlisle caught his cue, with alertness fairly to be called brilliant. "Yes," said he, "the young lady is of foreign education and family, and is most skillful in these respects. I should find it difficult to carry forward my literary work without her able assistance."

He virtually sat erect, with a fine air, presently pushing back his chair.

Dunwoody looked from one to the other in perplexity. His face flushed. Meantime Josephine St. Alban arose, bowed and left them.

When the two men found themselves alone Dunwoody, for a time lost in moody silence, at length broke out into a peal of laughter. "Well, I make no comment, further than to say that I consider all the lady's fears were groundless. She has been well treated. There was no need to call for my aid. The army was hard to defeat, captain, and always was! But since when have countesses gone into secretarieship? I accept my temporary defeat," said Dunwoody slowly. "We'll see. I told Jones and Judge Clayton and one or two others that I was pining for a little game of draw poker. What do you say? Should not all lesser questions be placed in abeyance?"

"That," said the other, "comes to me at the present moment in the nature of an excellent compromise measure. I am agreed."

The players made a group not uninteresting as they gathered about the table in the deck saloon. Across the table from Carlisle sat Judge Henry Clayton of New Madrid, a tall and slender gentleman, with silky white mustaches and imperial, gentle of speech, kindly of countenance.

At Clayton's side Dunwoody, younger, larger and more powerful, made something of a contrast. The last of the party was the Hon. William Jones, state senator from Belmont, Mo.

Sitting himself, the last named now began shuffling a pack between fingers short, pudgy, freckled and experienced. His stooped shoulders thrust forward a beardless round face. His short, dark hair receded from a high forehead and a thick, midbody befokened at the middle age and easy living. A planter of the back country and a politician, his capital was a certain native shrewdness and little else. He quoted frequently from Gibbon's "Decline and Fall of the Roman Empire."

Of course, in company such as this, and at such a day, the conversation must turn inevitably to the ever fruitful topic of slavery. As they played they talked.

"I would suggest," said Dunwoody, "that before we tempt the gods of fortune we should first pour a libation for their favor. What do you say, sir?" He turned to Jones and winked at Clayton.

"No, no, no, sir! No, I thank you just as much, but I never drink more than once in a day. Unless—that is, of course—unless there is some very special occasion, such as this. But Tom"—turning to the colored boy—"make it very light; ver-ry light. Hold on, thank, not too light."

The tokens were distributed and in accordance with the custom of the time, the table soon was fairly well covered with money of divers sorts, gold coin, a lesser amount of silver, bills issued by many and divers banks in this or that portion of the country.

Silence fell when the game really began. Half an hour and the passing of time was forgot.

At first, the cards ran rather severely against the judge and rather in favor of Jones, who played with such thoroughness that presently there appeared before him a ragged pile of currency and coin. Dunwoody and Carlisle were losers, but finally Dunwoody began to edge, in upon the accumulated winnings of his neighbor on the right. An hour passed, two hours more. The boat plowed on downstream. Presently the colored boy began to light lamps.

A frown came on the florid countenance of the young officer. The pile of tokens and currency before him lessened steadily. At last, in fact, he began to show uneasiness. He thrust a hand into a pocket where supplies seemed to have grown scarce. Dunwoody looked up from his own last hand.

"Don't leave us just yet, friend," he said. "You may draw on me for all you like, if you care to continue. We shall see that you get a ticket, back home. No man can ask more than that!"

"Suppose I sit with you for one jack-pot, gentlemen," said Carlisle. "The hour is growing late for me, and I must plead other duties. When a man is both busy and broke it is time for him to consider."

"No, no," expostulated the Hon. William Jones, who long since had forgotten his rule regarding one drink a day. "No, no, not broke and not busy! Not at all!"

"I don't know," said Dunwoody. "Suppose we make it one more jack pot, all around?" They agreed to this. It was Judge Clayton's deal.

"Gimme at least three," began the senator from Belmont, puckering out his lips in discontent.

"Three good ones," consented the judge. "How many for the rest of you?"

Dunwoody shook his head. "I'll stand as it is, please."

The judge quietly discarded two cards, Carlisle having done the same. The betting now went about with more than one increase from the Hon. William Jones, whose eyes apparently were seeing large. At last the "call" came from Carlisle, who smilingly moved the bulk of his remaining fortune toward the center of the table.

Thereupon, with a blink and sane smile, the Hon. William Jones shook his head and folded his cards together. The judge displayed queens and tens, the gentleman opposite queens and deuces. Dunwoody laid down his own hand, which showed aces and fours. They all sighed.

"Gentlemen, you all deserve to win," said Dunwoody. "I feel like a thief."

Judge Clayton rose, laughing, slapping Dunwoody on the shoulder and giving his arm to Mr. Jones, whom he assisted to his room.

CHAPTER III.
The Spoils of War.

DUNWOODY remained seated at the table, carelessly shuffling the cards between his fingers. Once in awhile he cast an amused glance toward Carlisle and at last remarked, as though continuing an arrested thought:

"Amanuensis, is she?" He chuckled. "I think that will do, my dear Dunwoody," rejoined Carlisle, the hot blood in his face. "Frankly, this is unwelcome to me."

"I'll tell you what I'll do with you," exclaimed the Missourian suddenly. "I'll bet you every cent in this pile of my winnings here, that that young lady isn't your amanuensis and never has been. I'll bet its like that she is no relative of yours. I'll bet it all over again that she is the most beautiful woman that ever set foot on a boat on this river, or ever set foot on any land. Moreover, I'll bet again!"

"You might win a certain share of these wagers," smiled the young officer, willing to pass by a possible argument. "Moreover, I am quite willing to discuss arrangements for changing the term of servitude of this young lady. I've been doing a little thinking about one or two matters since this morning."

"What?"

"Quite right. I wouldn't care to restrain her in any way, if she cared to travel in other company. Our work is well advanced toward completion, as it is. My fortunes need mending now. Do you think I could continue a journey down the river in company so strong at cards as yours? At a later time, if you like, I will endeavor to get my revenge."

"Suppose you have it now," said Dunwoody calmly.

"But, tut! I don't borrow to play cards."

"You do not need to borrow, I say. Your stake equals mine, and we will play as equals too. Come, let us deal one poker hand between two and to the hills!"

The other man looked at him and gazed at the heaped pile of coins and notes which lay before him. "I don't understand," said he.

"You don't understand me," said Dunwoody, looking him fair in the face. "I said that your stake can easily be equal with this on the table. I'll play you just two out of three jack pots between the two of us. You see my stake."

"But mine?"

"You can make it even by writing one name—and correctly—here on a piece of paper. Full value—yes, ten times as much as mine! You are giving odds, man!"

"I don't understand you."

"You don't want to understand me. Come, now. You, as an army man, ought to know something of the history of poker in these United States. Listen, my friend. Do you recall a certain game played by a man high in authority—yesterday than he is today—a game played upon a snowbound train in the north country? Do you remember what the stakes were—then? Do you recall that that man later became a president of the United States? Come. There is fine precedent for our little enterprise."

The swift flash on the face of the other man made his answer. Dunwoody went on mercilessly:

"He played then much as you do now. There was against him then, as there is now against you, a man who admitted not so much just one woman in all the world as, let us say, one particular woman then and there present. Perhaps you remember his name—Mr. Parish. Picture that snowbound train, that great citizen and Parish playing and playing until at last it came to the question of a woman—not so beautiful as this one here, but in her own way shrewd, the same sort of woman. I might say—mysterious, beautiful and—no, don't protest, and I'll not describe. You remember very well her name. It was pleasant property, not so long ago for everybody. They played for the love, not for the hand, of that woman. Parish won her. Do you remember now?"

The younger man sat looking at him silently, his face now grown quite pale. Dunwoody went on:

"It was a man's game and well worth the playing. Your former head of the army, at least, lost, and he paid. The other won. All Ogdensburg can tell you about that today. They lived there together—Parish and the woman till he went abroad. Yes, and she was a prisoner there not simply for a short time. She lived and died there. Whatever Parish did, whoever he was, he never loved any other woman as he did that one. And when it comes to that no other woman in that town ever was loved more than she by everybody."

This year, whose number is 1913, is surely acting rather mean. Disasters tread each other's heels until the sad onlooker feels that Jonah, from his ancient berth, has certainly returned to earth. There must be something true, odds fish, in that old-fashioned superstition: "thirteen" is hoodooed, sure as fate—this year can't have its luck on straight.
